Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4, 6-13, 23-30, 32-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Keuser Sr. (1571012).

Keuser Sr. shows an impact resistant window assembly comprising a double hung window including a window sash (15) movably disposed within a window jamb assembly, the window sash having an exterior portion and an interior portion, a bracket assembly (figure 5) including a bracket portion (4) having at least a first position (figure 2) and a second position (figure 5), the bracket portion disposed within an outwardly extending opening of the window jamb assembly (the jamb assembly surrounding the bracket assembly) when the bracket portion is disposed in the first position, the portion disposed over a portion of the interior of the sash when the portion is in the second position, the bracket portion (4, 5) being slidable from the first position to the second position, the assembly being substantially concealed in the jamb assembly (within the perimeter of the assembly) from a frontal view of the window when the bracket is disposed in the first position, the portion including a stop (8) which prevent overextension of the portion, the sash including a rail and stile, the assembly further includes a filler (20) disposed within the window assembly, one or more fasteners (17) securing the assembly to an outer frame, the fasteners (31) are concealed from view (by the jamb assembly), the bracket assembly including a filler and a movable bracket portion (4,5), the assembly providing reinforcing to the interior of the sash, the bracket assembly including a base plate, the movable bracket portion is disposed between the filler and a portion of a base plate, the filler including interlock features, the features coupling the base and the movable bracket portion, the filler having an outer appearance similar to one or both of the window jamb assembly or the window jamb liner, the bracket assembly being disposed within a recess of a side portion of window, the sash being movably disposed within a window jamb assembly, the bracket portion including a tool access port on a leading edge thereof, only an edge of the bracket portion is viewable when the bracket portion is disposed in the first position, a hinge (11) about which the bracket portion moves.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Keuser Sr in view of Vazquez (2003128).

Keuser Sr. shows all the claimed limitations except for the bracket portion being disposed over a portion of the rail and stile when the portion is in the second position.

Vazquez shows the attachment of a bracket over a portion of rail and stile when the bracket is in the second position.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Keuser Sr.'s structure to show the bracket portion being disposed over a portion of the rail and stile when the portion is in the second position because it enables the locking of both the stile and rail of the window in place as taught by Vazquez.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-13, 23-30 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The prior art shows different window bracket device.
